

S.122

A black and white photograph of an archaeological site. The ground is uneven and textured, possibly composed of mud or clay. In the upper left, there is a rough, rectangular object, possibly a fragment of pottery or a stone. To its right, a white rectangular label with the text 'S.122' is placed. Below the label is a black and white scale bar. The overall scene is dimly lit, with shadows cast across the ground.

S.122

S.116