

An archaeological site showing a large, smooth, rounded stone object, possibly a pebble or a small stone tool, resting on a dirt surface. The stone is light-colored and has a smooth texture. To its right, there are several other stones of various shapes and sizes, some appearing to be fragments of larger objects. A white rectangular label with the number '469' is placed next to the large stone. Below the label, a red and white scale bar is visible, providing a sense of scale for the objects. The ground is composed of dark, textured soil.
