

525

S.125

519

A black and white photograph of an archaeological site. A scale bar is positioned at the top left, with a white label below it containing the number '500'. The ground is uneven and textured, with several small, light-colored objects scattered across it. A larger, rounded object is visible on the right side. The overall scene suggests an excavation or a study of ancient remains.

500

